

Today started with a very welcome 7am wake-up call when the TV kicked into life - the power is back!

I decided to head to the top of the Rockefeller Centre to enjoy the views on what started out as such a clear but cooler day.

